

From: Schreck, Paul CONT (NASKW 191)
To: 'microsoft.atr(a)usdoj.gov'
Date: 12/3/01 8:40am
Subject: Micro$oft antitrust case

To whom it may concern,

I am dumbfounded!

Having followed the Microsoft Antitrust case closely, from its inception, I find it unconscionable that Microsoft could be let off with nothing more than a 'slap on the wrist'. I've never seen such a lopsided case. I liken this case to having a suspect, caught on camera murdering two people, while witnesses stand watching, and the police arriving as the suspect stands over the dead bodies, with the gun still in his hand. You (DOJ) have the proverbial 'Smoking Gun', and yet you let MS walk away.

I know there are more important things going on in the world right now, but does that nullify all common knowledge? As a veteran of the US Navy, I know full well what is happening in the world, but if we cannot maintain unconditional justice in our own country, how can we expect to in another? Would a convicted murderer in our country be given probation, because Ramon Eduardo Arellano-Felix (FBI's 10 most wanted) is still roaming free?

You call yourself the Department of Justice, but I find this proposed remedy neither just, nor appropriate.

Regards,
Paul J. Schreck

--

Paul J. Schreck
Lead Computer Technician
Naval Air Station, Key West

CC: 'microsoftcomments(a)doj.ca.gov','attorney.general...